

02/25/18 – Beyond Dogma / Beyond Our History

“The hero makes their way home with one thing and one thing only, the awareness of their oneness with God.” Share a time when you felt/knew that you were connected to something greater than yourself.

“The journey to our true selves cannot be a second-hand experience.” What does that mean to you?

“Oneness is an experience that cannot be imprisoned in a teaching, but rather it lives and breathes as an intimacy, a mystery and a way of being that transcends the teaching.” What does that mean to you?

Myrtle Fillmore said, “Every home takes on the quality of the prevailing thought held in it.” What is the prevailing thought in the home of your consciousness? Would you like to change it or keep it, and why?
